Why Advertising Pays.

If people did not move away and some die—

If new generations did not grow up—

If competitors did not compete—

If people were not receptive to new ideas—

Then—

And only then—

Would there be no need for advertising.

Because of changing business conditions—

Fluctuations in wages—

And the natural aggressiveness and progressiveness of the normal man—

He is your prospective buyer today who could not use or afford your product yesterday.

These were the reasons pointed out recently by a well known sales manager of a large corporation on why it is imperative that advertising be consistent and regular.—Ex.

Orie Marshall, colored was fined $1.00 and cost Monday in the police court for running into a Buick car driven by Eph Guevel, on Estil Heights some time Sunday night.

Allen Chambers has sold his farm consisting of 50 acres to Henry Marcks, administrator of the August Marcks estate. Consideration $300 per acre.

The Cost of a Boy.

A man in Chicago announces that it costs $5,500 to raise a boy to the age of twelve years. How he arrives at his figures we are not told, but the average father is not likely to protest that this estimate is too low.

Using the figures, a class of ten boys in Sunday school represents an investment of $55,000.

A scout troop of thirty stands for an outlay of $165,000.

A school room of boys represents an investment of close to a quarter of a million.

Are the community and the church reaping to the best of their ability on the investment in boyhood? The church utilizes that investment one or two hours per week. The scout troop works it a trifle more than this; the school considerably more and yet not to the perfection of 100 per cent.

And what of the boy on the street, the boy at work when he ought to be in school or the urchin full of craftiness and guile?

Every boy represents an investment by society. When our criminal records reveal the high peak of crime as coming at the age of seventeen we have some idea of the enormous waste of that costly investment made before and up to the age of twelve.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Are Women Liable to Alimony?

The question has been raised in Minnesota whether gaining the vote makes a woman liable to pay alimony. A suit has been brought by one Benjamin Liss against his wife, Minnie Liss, for support and alimony. Liss and his wife accumulated considerable property. He was stricken with paralysis two years ago. He said his wife sold their common property and refused to support him from the proceeds. Without the income from the money thus obtained, he says he must become a public charge.

Want New County In New Oil District.

Because of the oil prospects in Southern Bates and Northern Vernon County there is a movement to form a new county from the surrounding territory and make Rich Hill the county seat.

The area of the new county would be over 450 square miles more than required by the constitution. As Bates and Vernon each contain 900 square miles of territory the new county would leave each county with 700 square miles. The population of the proposed new county would be nearly 20,000.—Missouri State Journal.

The first two were said to be distinguished by blue instead of green backs and the latter two by the poor quality of the paper.
